When Timothy O'Hea misheard his story about his interview with Nelda Croft, he leaned back and looked at his boss, Martin Queripel.

"And now what do you think of that for an afternoon's work?
If you put two and two together, what do you get?"

"Forty!" said Queripel. "It was a noble afternoon's work. And it would be wonderful if it were legal evidence. But the courts don't admit hearsay. And all we have is your hearsay of her hearsay of what Pete Kelso told Nelda and what she guessed. But you write down what you told me while it's fresh in your mind. Go to it!"

When O'Hea was gone, Queripel's mind was an even more turbulent maelstrom than before.
That night after he went to bed, he could not sleep.

His mind reconstructed certain events that had taken place in Paul Moody's studio when Detectives James Slivers and Pete

Answer: No. That very young marriages very rarely turn out successfully is amply proved by the ratio of divorce among the young is far higher than it is among older people.

There are a million good reasons why boys and girls of 19 and thereabouts should not marry.
One is that they do not know their own minds. Their taste in husbands and wives changes just as their taste in food and clothes and books and amusements changes as they grow up and mature.

Have Not Had Playtime
Another reason why boys and girls should not marry is that they have not had their playtime.
Still another reason that children in their salad days should not marry is because, unless they have inherited money, they have nothing to marry on, nothing on

Little Rock, March 27 —(AP)— In unwhiling a Garland chancery decision today, the Arkansas Supreme court said a Hot Springs real estate broker, E. M. Thrash, was entitled to $1,150 in commission for providing a buyer for a $23,000 home.

Mrs. Cecil E. Portis of Hot Springs owned the house and allegedly signed a contract with Thrash providing for payment of a commission to be found a purchaser for the property.

She testified in the lower court that the contract was cancelled before the house was sold.
The Supreme court said the Blytheville housing authority was correct in awarding a single contract covering all phases of a construction project.

State Sen. Ellis Fagan of Little Rock, owner of an electric company, brought suit in Mississippi Chancery court to force the housing authority to award separate contracts for various phases of the construction work. He said a state law provides for separate contracts for all government projects costing more than $10,000.
However, the high court said the housing authority was not a taxing unit and was not covered by the state law. It said the statute pertains only to projects undertaken by the state and its agencies.

FINGERPRINTS
Don't LieBy Rupert Hughes
Copyright 1950 by Rupert Hughes Dist. by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THIS STORY: Private detective Martin Queripel is trying to clear Paul Moody, a young sculptor, of murder charges in the slaying of Wendell Palmer, father of Moody's brother, Vinton Palmer. Police detectives found fingerprints on the base of a telephone used to blindfold Palmer to death and claim these are Moody's. Queripel examines these and had duplicate prints of his own fingers taken from another telephone, apparently working on a theory that might clear Moody. Referring to his client, Queripel says, "I'm an ant, tells him of an interview with a mysterious woman, Nelda Croft, who reveals that she had attempted to blackmail Palmer and that her accomplice was police detective Pete Kelso, who had succeeded in building up the case against Moody. Recently Nelda and Kelso had had a falling out, and when she accused him of killing Palmer, Kelso denied it. Anyway, Palmer had been killed by someone else.

Kelso had gone there to collect fingerprints after Wendell Palmer's murder.

Queripel could see Kelso now, left alone for a few minutes, perhaps while Slivers went upstairs to get prints from Moody's personal belongings. Kelso might delve in Slivers' fingerprint kit, taking the envelopes of fingerprints and negatives from their proper places.

In his mind's eye, Queripel saw Kelso as he found the batch marked "telephone base" on which was written the address of the Palmer home. Kelso would study with panting greed the two tapes which Slivers had lifted from the base of the telephone—those two groups of four fingers each.

Kelso would go to the stairway, look and listen, then tiptoe back, certain that Slivers was busy upstairs.

With a pen-knife, perhaps, Kelso would pry off the labels in Slivers' handwriting and drop the prints into his own pocket.

Carefully next he would select two of the prints of Paul Moody's four fingers which Slivers had taken from the surface of one of the bronze statues a few minutes before.

On these Kelso might try to fasten the labels he had taken off the telephone base, which he could easily have picked up—perhaps when Slivers wrote them out at the Palmer home. The labels would fit perfectly and they would carry Slivers' own handwriting.

After that Kelso would put a rubber band around the prints and stuff them back into the pocket of the kit where he had found them.
After such a job, Kelso would be a different man—he would love the world. He would love life and count on a lot of it from now on.
Queripel went over and over his reconstruction of the crime. So far it was only theory. He would have to prove his theory.

Daybreak found him haggard and fagged.

THE morning papers gave Martin Queripel no comfort in the bad news from abroad and at home, or the bad press Paul Moody was getting.

When the detective reached his office, Harley Kenyon was waiting for him with an eager question.
"Did you see the advertisement in both the morning papers?"

Queripel shook his head. Kenyon handed him a clipping that read:
"Will the lady who saw Wendell Palmer standing at the door of his house and who waved to him and called to him shortly before he was murdered, kindly communicate with Harley Kenyon?" And with her chauffeur get in touch with me? Confidence respected and rewarded.

Kenyon's telephone and office address were given, of course.

Queripel read it and was forced to quench Kenyon's hopeful smile.
"I didn't see it. And she probably never will. Even if she does, being a lady with a limousine, she will prefer to remain in obscurity.
And she will see that her chauffeur does the same.

"Furthermore, if the reporters notice this and she never replies, her silence and her chauffeur's will make a bad impression. When you go fishing, it looks bad to come back with an empty hook."

KENYON'S jaw dropped with disappointment and hurt pride, so Queripel sought to console him.
"Of course, if I'm wrong, and she should turn up and remember Paul Moody's picking up the hat the old man hurled at him, that would be golden evidence. Everything's worth the try. And I may be fishing with poorer bait myself.
But to give you a bit of cheer read O'Hea's document."

They spent hours going over various plans and stratagems, but Queripel dared not even mention what was bodevilling his mind and driving him frantic between black-discrepancy and blinding flashes of hope.

Promises No
Headlines in Lobbying Probe

Washington, March 27 —(AP)— A congressional investigation into lobbying gets under way today, and its chairman says he isn't promising headlines.

Instead, Rep. Buchanan (D-Pa.) said, his special committee will aim at "an exhaustive job of fact-finding."

When it's all over, the house committee hopes to be in a position to recommend improvements in the present lobby registration act.

For its opening session (10 a.m., EST) the committee called Dr. Had Cantril, public opinion researcher, of Princeton, N. J. He will talk about "the role of lobbying in representative self-government."

Next on the list was Dr. Stephen Kemp Bailey. He is assistant professor of government at Wesleyan university, Middletown, Conn., and author of "Congress Makes A Law."

The hearings will be academic again tomorrow. Four political science experts will hold a roundtable discussion on the general theme of "the legislative theory of

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband and I were married more than a year ago on a shoestring. He did not even have a job and we have been living ever since with his family. His father and mother are in poor health and cannot afford to support us, but my husband makes no effort to get work. Sis around the house reading and gets angry when I tell him that he should get out and hunt up a job. He is killing my love and respect and I don't want this to happen.

MRS. S. W. P.
Answer: Personally, I doubt if it is possible to galvanize a lazy man into action, but you might try it by telling him that if you are not worth working for you are not worth being his wife, and that you are going to leave him until he finds a job and supports you and the baby. If he is just one of the irresponsible kind, that may bring him to his senses, and make him get out and hustle.

However, if your husband won't work, you must. You can't be craven enough and heartless enough to sit idly by and let an old man and woman toil to provide you with food and clothes.

And take my advice about giving the air to an able-bodied husband who won't work. If he were sick, I should say work your fingers to the bone to take care of him, but as long as he is strong and well force him to provide for himself. No man ever loves the wife he sponges a living on.
He hates her because she is a living reproach to him. He knows that the man who is supported by his wife is a derision among other men and he takes out his chagrin on her.

Dear Miss Dix: Does a flatterer like to be flattered?

Answer: Of course. Everybody likes to be flattered. But a flatter-er shows his craving for adulation by the mere fact that he thinks that the surest way of pleasing you is by heaping compliments upon you. That is the thing he most desires himself and he is hoping you will pay him back in his own coin.

small pink rubber balls today gave Premier Marshal Tito heavy backing in his fight with the Russian-led Cominform.

First returns from yesterday's parliamentary election — in which Tito and his ticket were unopposed — showed more than 95 per cent of the vote going to the communist People's Front Tito heads.

Nearly 100 per cent of Yugoslavia's 10,000,000 eligible voters used the country's traditional ballot — a pink rubber pellet dropped into one of two election boxes. One box was for Tito; the other registered negative opposition.

Tito sought a heavy vote for his party to show solid support for his battle with the Cominform, which imposed an economic boycott against Yugoslavia after kicking the Belgrade government out of the Moscow-led organization almost two years ago.

The first complete returns, from Mostar in the central Yugoslav republic of Herzegovina, listed 17,875 pink "yes" for the People's frontiers and only 88 in the opposition "blind" box.

Southward in the heart of Macedonia, the second district of Skop-lje showed a similar overwhelming vote — 22,173 for Tito, 122 in the opposition box. Tito was a candidate for parliament in all seven of the Yugoslav republics.

Election officials expected to complete tallying the results by Wednesday. The election was to name 405 members of the lower house of parliament and 15 members of the upper house.

Chicago, March 27 —(AP)— Dr.
Matt Ellis, president of Hendrix college, Conway, Ark., has been elected president of the North Central Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges.

End of Lengthy Harry Bridges Trial in Sight

San Francisco, March 27 (AP)— The end of the lengthy Harry Bridges perjury trial is in sight.
 Chief Defense Counsel Vincent Hallinan was to wind up his final argument to the jury today.

The case should reach the jury by Thursday or Friday. Associate defense counsel has said he would require one or two days after Hallinan finishes.

Prosecutor F. Joseph Donohue will take probably another day in rebuttal arguments.

Bridges, CIO longshore chief, is accused of perjury in denying he was not or ever had been a communist when he received his citizenship in 1945.

NEW RECREATIONAL AREA FOR ARKANSAS

(Top) Parks Hunter of Murfreesboro, Senator F. C. Crow of Hope, Dave Parsons, Reservoir Manager of Narrows Dam and Recreational area and Louis Graves, Editor of the Nashville News, go over development plans for the state's newest recreational area. (Middle) The Narrows Dam was constructed for the primary purpose of flood control on the Little Missouri River and hydro-electric power production. Secondary purpose is for recreational development. (Bottom) The reservoir is located in a beautiful rolling hill section of Arkansas that is second to none in natural beauty—more importantly, the lake is brimming with game fish.

Completion of the Narrows Dam, located on the Little Missouri River near Murfreesboro, will open up one of the newest and finest recreational areas in Arkansas and the Southwest.

The $13,500,000 dam and reservoir project is scheduled to be finished by July of this year. Set up with the primary purpose of providing hydro-electric power and flood control, the project will create an 18-mile long lake with a shoreline of 170 miles.

Residents of southwest Arkansas believe the Narrows will prove to be a "natural" for sportsmen and vacationers. They point to the fishing fame of the Little Missouri and report that fine catches already have been taken from parts of the reservoir where water has reached a depth of 135 feet.

Under a bill introduced late last month in Congress by Representative Owen Harris, El Dorado, the new lake would be named Lake Greeson, in honor of the late Martin W. Greeson, Prescott, whose efforts and interest as a member of the Arkansas Flood Control Commission were a contributing factor in obtaining authorization for construction of the dam.

Plans are already under way for creation of a full-time recreational area organization. No name has yet been adopted, but details were outlined and discussed at a recent meeting of the Murfreesboro Young Men's Association, attended by civic leaders from nearby communities, representatives of the Arkansas Resources and Development Commission and the U. S. Engineers, Louis Graves, editor of the Nashville News, was named publicity director for the group.

Homeless lots on the lake area will be available at an early date, according to the U. S. Engineers office at Vicksburg, Mississippi.
 In the Cowhide Cove section, 59 lots have been laid off ready for offering at public advertising. Applications for these lots should be addressed in writing, to the Vicksburg office. Final distribution of lots will be made through a drawing, since it is expected that demand will exceed supply. Ownership of commercial sites will be determined on a bid basis. Each lot contains approximately two acres of ground. In addition to those located in Cowhide Cove, other lots soon will be made available in the Mill Mountain section.

The new Narrows recreational area is located 56 miles southwest of Hot Springs, relocation of Highway 70, which crosses the upper end of the reservoir, was begun in April, 1947, and completed in December of that year. Negotiations are now in progress to effect minor relocation of county roads and utility lines. An oiled gravel road, extending 6.8 miles from Murfreesboro to the dam site, has been government constructed.

Proposed development plans of the U. S. Engineers call for provision of two public use sites—one directly adjacent to the east abutment of the dam and the other about 1,000 feet north of the east abutment. The former site would be equipped with an overlook building with public rest rooms and an adjoining parking area. The second site would have a small beach, swimming dock, self-service change house with sanitary facilities, parking areas, public boat launching ramp, and picnic facilities.

Construction of proposed developments will depend "upon the demand and need thereof as shown by those visiting the lake for recreational purposes, and upon the availability of funds to provide them," the U. S. Engineers office points out. State and local agencies will be given full opportunity to participate.

Parks Hunter, President of the Murfreesboro Young Business
 Men's Association, called the meeting to study promotional possibilities, and it was this group that first proposed the association for development of the Narrows recreational area.

Four Lives Taken by Accidents Over Weekend

Fire gunshots and traffic accidents took at least four lives in Arkansas over the weekend.

In Fayetteville, a six-year-old Hickory Ridge, Ark., boy David Clor died from burns suffered Saturday in a fire that destroyed the family's three-room farm home.
 His mother Mrs. Charles Clor, said the fire started when gasoline, used mistakenly by her brother in an effort to start a fire, exploded.

A Dermott Negro grocer, Eddie Coaster, 45, was shot and killed Sunday by City Marshal Holland.
 The officer said Coaster threatened him with a club when he tried to search the store for whiskey. A coroner's jury held the shooting justifiable homicide.

An unusual traffic accident took the life of Jim Sullins 18, in Newport Sunday. As a car in which he was a passenger started to back out of a filling station, the door opened and Sullins fell out. He died several hours later in a Newport hospital.

Saturday, Ben Finley, Waldo Negro, was killed in an overturning school bus near Magnolia.

 are now in progress to effect minor
 lity lines. An oiled gravel road, ex-
 government constructed.

 about 1,000 feet north of the east
 abutment. The former site would
 launching ramp, and picnic facilities.

Construction of proposed devel-
 participate.

Parks Hunter, President of the
 proposed the association for development of the Narrows recreational area.
